

Halloween in Las Vegas? It's very chill, guys and ghouls

HIDE CAPTION ^

5 / 11

Las Vegas

(Peter Scaturro)

Candy corn, a Halloween tradition, is repurposed as a seasonal gelato flavor at Trevi Italian Restaurant inside the Forum Shops at Caesars Palace.

By JAY JONES

 From concerts to a classic movie, from goblins to sweet treats, Las Vegas lets you indulge on Halloween

OCTOBER 22, 2014, 8:15 AM

Halloween month is a bewitching time to come to the Las Vegas. If the cooler weather doesn't do the trick, the superbly decorated haunted houses with their casts of goblins are sure to send chills down your spine.

Halloween is Oct. 31, a Friday and the start of the weekend in Las Vegas, which is always a frenzy of activity anyway. The fright fest only ramps it up, with an array of ghoulish, ghostly and goofy activities.

If you're all about the sugar on Oct. 31, you'll find holiday-themed goodies without having to ring a stranger's doorbell.

Costumes are optional, but encouraged, at many of the spooky settings throughout the Las Vegas Valley.

To check out some of the festivities, see the photos above. For a calendar of events, go to Vegas.com

Follow us on Twitter at @latimetravel

Copyright © 2014, All Rights Reserved